Sabine Pilots

Sabine Pilots are serving the shipping industry and the public ports of Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange as well as the private oil terminals and the industrial complex of Southeast Texas. The Sabine Neches Waterway is the economic lifeline and the gate to world commerce. It is the duty of the Sabine Pilots to maintain the safety and the environmental integrity of the waterway. We have done so since 1881 and pledge to continue.

This issue is full of great articles about cowboys and cowgirls, and all things western from rodeos to decorating your home. Meet three real-live cowboys, PCR World Champion Bull Rider Cody Teel, Attorney Bailey Wingate of the historical Wingate Ranch, and Frank Gilligan, a Country Singer/Song Writer.

In this Issue of Massaches Magazine you will get a look at the latest trends in fashion and hair, getting into shape for summer, fun festivals and galas, and baseball. Therefore, it is only fitting that the Spotlight in this issue features Lamar Baseball Coach Jim Gilligan and his legendary feats. Our Tribute in this issue is to Tim Sudela, the President of American Valve & Hydrant, who is very active in our community.

Several parts of Southeast Texas were flooded earlier this year. Many of our friends and neighbors have been affected by this flooding and our hearts and prayers go out to them. For those who want to help, contact your local Church or the Red Cross.

This is the time to celebrate life, getting rid of the old and welcoming the new, remembering our fallen Veterans and paying honor to our Mothers and our Fathers. So grab your boots, favorite jeans and "celebrate!"

im Sudela is the current President of American Valve & Hydrant Manufacturing Company. located in Beaumont and a subsidiary of American Cast Iron Pipe Company from Birmingham, Alabama. Tim is a Nederland Bulldog graduate and attended Lamar Institute of Technology (L.I.T.) where he received an AAS Degree in Drafting Technology. Tim joined American Valve & Hydrant in 1983 as a Designer draftsman. It was also the year that Tim married his wife, Lisa.

One of the reasons that attracted Tim to join American Valve & Hydrant was that it implemented the "Golden Rule" concept that founder of American Cast Iron Pipe Company, John Eagan started when he created the parent company in 1905. That concept in business continues today.

The first President of American Valve & Hydrant, Jim Yarbrough, brought the "American Golden Rule" culture with him in 1969, after working twenty-three years for American Cast Iron Pipe Company. When Mr. Yarbrough retired in 1994, he was followed by Dalton Babineaux. who like Mr. Yarbrough, was very active in the local community. Mr. Babineaux illustrated how the company provides opportunities to employees that have desire and initiative, since he too worked his way through the ranks, and setting an example for Tim.

While working at American Valve & Hydrant, Tim was allowed to pursue his education, earning a BS Degree in Industrial Technology in 1987 and a BS Degree in Mechanical Engineering in 1992 from Lamar University. Tim served as Plant Engineer and Manager of Engineering prior to becoming President in 2008.

Tim says he is most fortunate to have worked under two great Presidents' at a company that fosters personal growth and a spirit of volunteerism in the community. Mr. Sudela has followed that example with a passion. He currently serves the following organizations:

AMERICAN

VALVE & HYDRANT

THE RIGHT WAY

Anayat House -Board member Better Business Bureau -Past Chair, Board member Boys Scouts of America -Advisory Board member Rotary Club of Beaumont-President Nominee. Board member. RYLA chair Greater Beaumont Chamber of Commerce - Board Chair, Long Range Planning Division, Advancing New Technologies at Lamar University Division, Government and Public Affairs Division Lamar Institute of Technology

Tim Suleda's hobbies (when he finds extra time) include photography and home repair. Tim feels blessed that he started a great career at American Valve & Hydrant over thirty-two years ago, that he has a son, Michael, a daughter, Casey, and Lisa, at his side.

One of Tim's favorite quotes is by Ralph Waldo Emerson, "Be Silly, Be Honest, Be Kind." In addition to his faith, that quote and the Golden Rule are the principles that guide him through life.

Tim Sudela is a testament of a great citizen of Southeast Texas and a Great American!

HELP YOU BUILD RELATIONSHIPS

The GBCOC hosts more than 150 networking opportunities each and every year. Not sure where to start? If you're not a member, but want to see if it's for you, join us any Friday from 7:30–8:30 a.m. at Tradewinds Tavern (inside the MCM Elegante) for an informal networking opportunity

PROVIDE YOU WITH RESOURCES TO GROW YOUR BUSINESS

With your membership comes a plethora of resources including discounts at member locations through member to member deals, access to a database of businesses from around the country with our business data search, the opportunity to attend professional development luncheons and many more! For a full list visit bmtcoc.org

GIVE YOUR BUSINESS A VOICE

Through GBCOC business advocacy efforts, your organization will gain a say in what happens in government. To have even more influence, we encourage you to join one of our twelve divisions including but not limited to Government & Public Affairs, Advancing New Technologies at Lamar, SETX Young Professionals Organization and the Chamber's Leadership Development division.

MAKE CONNECTIONS IN A NON-COMPETITIVE ENVIRONMENT

The GBCOC's referral groups, new to the chamber in 2014, have already generated more than 3 million dollars in referrals. If you are not familiar with referral groups, they offer you a "chair" in the group where you are the only professional in your industry. This gives you the opportunity to capitalize on relationships built in a non-competitive environment. More than $55,000 in referrals have been passed just this year!

PORT OF BEAUMONT CELEBRATES CENTENNIAL

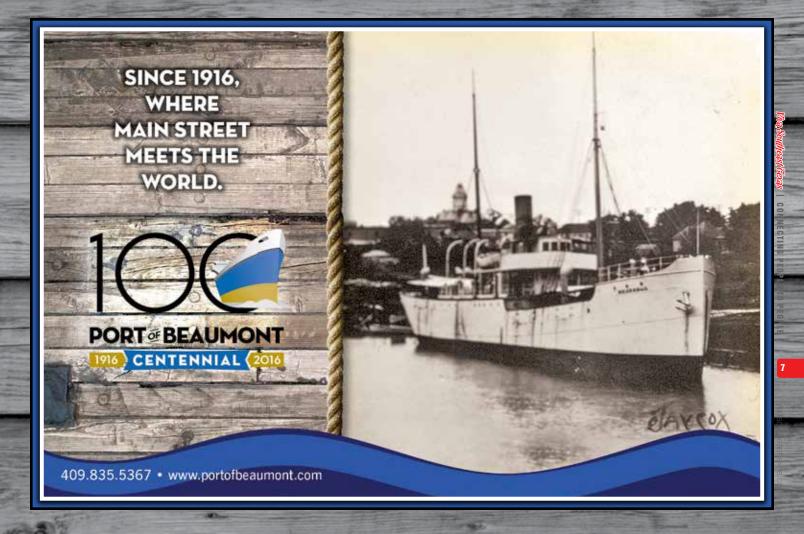

By Michelle Howard

016 marks the 100th anniversary of the Port of Beaumont, a major Deepwater port in Southeast Texas. A series of celebrations and public events began October 20th, 2015 when the Greater Beaumont Chamber of Commerce presented the port with its Spindletop Award for Outstanding Corporate Citizenship. A record crowd of 800 people were on hand for the 112th annual Chamber meeting, where keynote speaker, Texas Lieutenant Governor Dan Patrick, saluted the port for 100 years of service. Port officials have planned a number of events over the next six months to commemorate the Centennial. A Centennial history book will be released in early summer. Other activities in celebration of the history of the port will be announced during the next few months.

The centennial book, Deep Water: The Story of Beaumont and its Port, was written by David H. Falloure. The hardbound book with photos and narrative will include the history and development of the Port of Beaumont.

VAQUEROS, COWBOYS & COWPOKES

By Viva Southeast Texas

omewhere in Mexico in the 1500s, cattle from Spanish stock meandered north to graze. They had longer horns than most cattle, often spanning six feet, and were lean bordering on bony. As they wandered across the frontier, they met sturdy, speckled-coated British-bred cattle moving west from the eastern U.S coasts. Nature took its course, and by the 1800s, a new breed of strong, hardy, disease-resistant Longhorn cattle roamed the Texas frontier by the millions. These cattle were herded by Mexican vaquero or cowboys. Vaqueros had been herding and driving cattle and wild horses for hundreds of years by the time they became part of the Texas ranching landscape.

The vaqueros didn't set out to become any kind of icons, either by clothing or skills. To the Spanish owners of big ranches in Mexico, the vaquero was a laborer. Most vaqueros were mestizo (of Native American and Spanish ancestry), American Indian, African American, mulatto, or criollo (a Spaniard born in North America). Vaqueros were early versions of independent contractors and weren't bound to a ranching hacienda or a patron unless they chose to be. Vaqueros owned their horses, saddles, and ropes and what they did with them would shape the

with them would shape the history of Texas ranching and the Texas Cowboy.

The vaqueros were so renowned for their skills that rancher Richard King traveled to Mexico in 1854 to recruit entire vaquero families to manage his herds. King knew that these Mexican cowboys knew what to do with horses and cattle much better than he did. Seasoned vaqueros could stop a horse in its tracks or send it into a flat-out gallop with the slightest sway of the reins. These cowboys understood the social structure of cattle herds so well that they knew just where to look for the hiding strays.

Their roping, riding, and ranching knowledge was unsurpassed.

The short, hardy Spanish mustang horse became the horse of choice for the early Texas Cowboy, as well as most of the vaqueros' attire; from the leather chaps, the blanket or handkerchief around the neck, the vest which not only had useful pockets but gave protection from the cold winds of the prairie, a rawhide rope and the wide brimmed hat. Their boots had heels two inches high to rest comfortably in the stirrups or to dig into the ground while roping a calf or wild steer.

During the late 17th century and early 18th century, the residents of Spanish Texas began herding cattle and driving them to Louisiana to sell, these are the first recorded cattle drives. In 1821, Spanish land grants were offered to settlers from the United States, in hopes of corralling the lawlessness from roving bands of outlaws, Indian raids and to raise tax revenues. Stephen F. Austin, led the first U.S. colonists, known as "The Old 300."

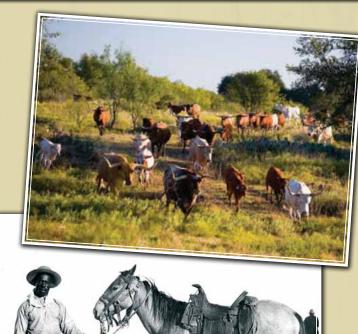

Just after the Civil War, longhorn beef sold for about $1.50 per head in overstocked Texas, but in the burgeoning cities on the east and west coasts, the coveted meat went for $30.00 to $40.00 per head. Many returning veterans began organizing large-scale cattle drives to herd millions of cattle from Texas to markets in the northern states where beef was in demand. Many former slaves took to the cattle trails. At least one quarter of Texan cowboys were African American during this period. Many of the early cattle drives started in South Texas such as the Chisholm Trail which went from the Rio Grande near Brownsville through Central Texas and Ft. Worth, and ended in Dodge City, Kansas. Charles Goodnight and his partner Oliver Loving traveled westward to the New Mexico and Colorado markets, establishing the Goodnight-Loving Trail. A typical drive took about four months and required courage, endurance, skill, and patience. The cattle drive team usually included a trail boss, 10-12 cowboys or Texas ranchers could make huge profits by moving their herds north on the now-famous trails that stretched from far south Texas to the Kansas railroad towns. From the 1860s to the late 1880s, cowboys herded over ten million cattle to market on the controlled chaos of a trail drive. Hard to believe that all that legendary Texas cattle history happened in a mere 20 years.

cowpokes, as they became known as, and a cook.

And the all-American rodeo? Vaquero through and through. You see at the end of a long day, the vaqueros relaxed and had fun... by riding and roping some more. Gathering in open fields, they competed against each other by racing horses and performing rope tricks, all to determine who was the most skilled. They leapt from horses to wrestle down a steer. They raced the clock for the shortest time to rope a calf and the longest time to stay on a bucking horse. They competed to keep their skills sharp and their reputations polished. Over time, crowds gathered to watch and cheer the vaqueros and their amazing feats.

Go to a rodeo today and take a look at the dusty icons of our heritage: cowboys and cowgirls in broad brimmed hats, leather boots, chaps, and jingling spurs. These cow pokes are probably twirling rawhide ropes, too – just waiting for a chance to fling the loop over a fleeing calf. More than a few people would look at that rodeo scene and tell you there's nothing more Texan than a cowboy or cowgirl. But that's not quite true. To be historically accurate, they'd have to say that there's nothing more North African-Spanish than a Texas cowboy. The tan-galóns, botas, chapareras, broncos, espuelas, and reatas belonging to today's cow folk are really the legacies of Texas's first real cowboys: the Mexican vaqueros.*

Book Nook Inn, Blending the Old and New... Creating a Unique B&B

By David Hearne

he Book Nook Inn is a sprawling bed and breakfast in Lumberton, Texas. This unique home blends old and new in its 5 elegantly decorated guest rooms. Visitors come from all around the world to enjoy the peace and quiet and Southeast Texas hospitality.

A stay at the venerable Inn allows plenty of areas to read, write or just some quiet time for reflection. Amenities include: swimming pool, hot tub, an inviting living room with fireplace, an extensive library, a billiards room, cinema room with hundreds of movie selections and plenty of nooks to discover and explore. For the quest that enjoys fishing, Book Nook has a fully stocked pond with catfish, perch and bass; the Book Nook will even supply poles and bait.

BOOK NOOK IN

Book Nook Inn is easy to reach. Just exit the Cooks Lake Road exit on US 96 and drive two miles east on Cooks Lake road and there it is on the left. The eclectic Inn stands tall on the left side of the road and at night it is festooned in many lights making it easy to spot.

During a stay at the Inn, you'll find that the rooms such as the Steampunk Room provide an exciting lodging adventure. Even if you are not a "steampunker," the culture, inventions and styles are exciting. Of course since the steampunk era is simply a grownup fantasy, it is Book Nook Inn's example of something that never was. If you are a fan of the roaring twenties step into their Art Deco room, a 700 square feet room that will transport you back to the flapper era and that is just two of their rooms. All guest rooms have their own bathrooms, mini fridge, coffee maker, microwave and many other amenities. Wi-Fi, free parking and a complimentary full breakfast adds to the Inn's charm.

Will the Presidential Election Affect Investment Outlook?

By Kevin Bohm with Edward Jones in Beaumont, TX

he 2016 Presidential Election season is in full swing. As a voter you may be keenly interested in the election process. But as an investor, should you be concerned?

If you take a look back, you might be somewhat encouraged over the prospects of the financial markets this year. In the last 12 presidential election years, the Dow Jones Industrial Average has been up nine times and down just three. So, election years must be good for the financial markets, right?

Not necessarily. In every year, the markets are influenced by a variety of factors: interest rates, inflation, corporate profits, geopolitical events, economic growth, even the weather. And it's safe to say that 2016 will be no different. At this early stage of the year, one could say that some of these factors, such as continued low interest rates and a reasonably strong economy, might bode well for investors. But there's a lot of 2016 ahead of us – and it's notoriously difficult for anybody, even so-called experts, to

Still, the market's history of pretty good results in presidential election years may not be entirely random. For one thing, the White House is never the only office being contested: elections are also held for every congressional district and many seats in the Senate. Consequently, during these election years, campaigning often takes precedence over legislating. This legislative inactivity tends to be welcomed by the financial markets, which generally dislike surprises, big changes and new directions. However, you can't really count on past trends to provide a certain roadmap for the year ahead, in terms of the performance of the financial markets.

As mentioned above, many factors influence this performance, and at this early stage in the year, we just can't predict which of these factors will take the lead. So, instead of worrying about things you can't control focus on those that you can. For starters, review your investment mix. Does it still properly reflect your goals, risk tolerance and time horizon? Over time, even if you haven't made many changes to your portfolio, it can become "unbalanced." Consequently, you might want to consider selling off some of your better performing assets and using the proceeds to fill in other gaps in your portfolio.

On the other hand, if you think your mix of investments is not providing you with the returns you need to help make progress toward your long-term objectives, you may need to add some vehicles that can provide you with more growth potential. After all, it is 2016 now, so whatever your age you are another year closer to retirement.

Will this year look like past presidential election years, as far as positive returns from the stock market? No one can say for sure. But if you "vote" for smart investment moves, you won't be sorry.

Hencing Our Mothers and Our Fathers!

By Diane L. Mangum

om! Just the mention of the word can spark memories of love, warmth and kindness. It's why a day has been designated just for her, honoring all that she's done. Experts agree, saying there is a tremendous amount of pressure to find the perfect gift to show our love, when in reality most moms just want to know that they are cherished.

Mother's Day is by far more popularly observed than Father's Day. However, honoring fathers is just as important. Fathers generally love their children dearly and often work long hours so that they can raise their children in comfort. They too just want to know that they are cherished.

Write down some heartfelt words. Be it in poem, story or a letter, moms and dads love the written word. Telling them how much they mean to you in your own words, is far more precious to them than any store bought greeting card. Take photos and share them with your mom and dad along with all your family, and don't forget the most important words every parent wants to hear---"I love you."

Never Enough

By Reanna Almeida

Sometimes I know the words to say to give thanks for all you've done, but then they fly up and away as quickly as they come.

How could I possibly thank you enough, the one who makes me whole, the one to whom I owe my life, the forming of my soul.

Top Ten Trends for Spring 2016

By Michelle Fosha Armstrong

n a few short weeks, we'll all pack away our sweaters and leather jackets and embrace the light and bright pieces of spring! But what to wear? While the Spring '16 runway shows brought a plethora of diverse styles, we're breaking it down to ten of the top trends for this season.

THE WHITE SHIRT – The classic white oxford has come out of its fashion shell and received a refreshing makeover! New twists, from cutouts, deconstruction, asymmetrical hemlines, tie waists and strategically placed ruffles, has made this staple a new, cool fav!

- This shiny metallic showed up in leather and lame'. on dresses and pants. Silver instantly makes even a low-kev. simple style become "highimpact". If you want to add this shiny statement color to your wardrobe, but aren't comfortable sporting it from head to toe, opt for a metallic bag, hair accessory or heels.

GARDEN VARIETY - Flowers always take a center stage in the spring and this season is no exception. From pretty, floral-embroidered dresses to fun, bold print maxis and floral print-blocked blouses, there are no boundaries!

STRIPES – Thin and bold. Vertical and horizontal. Monochromatic and multi-hued. Stripes emerged strong on dresses, jackets, tops and pants. The theme is color between the lines.

STREET LINGERIE - Sensual lightness lingered through the spring collections with ultra-luxurious slip dresses that imbued bits of lace, ruching and graphic color play. Pair these romantic, lady-like dresses with simple flats and a relaxed attitude. And while the designers have encouraged us to wear our pajama pants and silk gowns out on the town, if the lingerie look is a bit out of your comfort zone, you can still follow the trend in a more subtle way by layering a silk or lace cami under a button-front blouse or one of spring's boxy jackets.

cold shoulder - Cut-out necklines and strappy looks have been a part of our spring/summer wardrobe for a while, but this season, designers took the look a step further with designs meant to highlight the shoulders. From strapless to thin straps and crisscross to off-shoulder, everything is just a little sexier. For those who have a need for balance, try an asymmetrical neckline.

FRILLS – Ruffles were everywhere on the runways! Although always feminine, most looks were grownup, not girly. Some offered a flirtatious vibe to the silhouettes, while other smatterings produced a sculptural modern appeal.

FOLDS – The pleats we saw on the fall runways have been reduced to micro-size for spring. They are always lovable and add structure and interest to current silhouettes – and sometimes even a little flirtation!

SPARKLE & SHINE - Glitter, sparkles and sequins adorned just about everything in black and white patterns, crazy bright colors and even pastels. Dresses, pants, minis and maxis alike did not escape this trend! Want to take the bling down a notch? Just add sequined jewelry to a trendy tee and jeans.

Viva Fashion & Beauty

THE NET – Definitely one of the most popular trends, netting was seen on the runways covering dresses, tops and skirts....and well, some just wore the netting.

If you're still craving even more trendy options for spring, here are a few other looks from the runways: 70's inspired suede, leather skirts, pants and jackets, Latininfluenced pieces, head-to-toe linen, strings on everything. raw hems, super-sized gingham prints, bomber jackets, "paper bag" waists (not an easy trend to wear, but nonetheless a trend), plunging necklines, full coverage necklines. sophisticated tie dyed pieces, nautical denim, cutouts and lace, old English voluminous sleeves, oversized bows, maxi dresses and skirts!

Obviously, there are many incredibly beautiful designs, cuts and silhouettes to choose from for this season.

Remember that every trend is not for everyone, however. Let your personality guide you as you choose the trends that will enhance your personal style, your body type and allow you to express your wonderful and unique self! (All styles featured are beatrice b. or sfizio.)

ith change of seasons, comes changing of the hair. Color and cuts from one extreme to the next, you never know what you will see. According to reliable sources, sleek straight locks, blunt bangs, and even buzz cuts have been seen on the 2016 runways and will be the new trend. I find this anything but true. In the salon I own, the average client is looking for a more natural look, ditching the flat irons, even asking for perms or body waves. However perms have had a bad rap.

Most people think perms are a style of the 80s. They would do a lot of damage to the hair, making it difficult to manage.

It's not that way anymore. As long as your hair is healthy to start, a perm could work well for you. Today, women are asking for more natural waves and they are also asking for more natural hair colors as well.

Trends such as ombré, balayage, and color melts continue to be popular, along with the ever so popular grey hair fades. Silver or platinum are still admired, like Carrie Underwood's platinum bob she debuted this year looking ravishing glowing with her spray tan. This year, coloring is more natural looking and enhances your natural highlights. You will see more brown shades in 2016.

Makeup is also into a more natural look, with a pop of color on the lips or eyes. But please not both, that could potentially be too much. Contouring is still ever so popular; however, people should remember it's for pictures and videos but not for everyday.

How do you know if you can pull off that natural, just 'rolled out of bed' look with messy hair and little makeup (as if it were done on purpose)? You don't know until you try! You might just surprise yourself with the natural beauty lying beneath all that hair and makeup.

As they say "Beauty is in the eye of the beholder"

SILSBEE FARM & RANCH, SAME NAME . . .

NEW OWNERS!

By Kathie Platt

ince 1989 Silsbee Farm & Ranch Center has been serving the farm and ranch community of Hardin County as the regional supplier of livestock feed, fertilizer, fencing, dog food and tack. After ten years working for the center, Peggy Eddings, joined by husband Glenn, leapt at the chance last January to become the new owners of Silsbee Farm & Ranch. "I guess it is our first anniversary!" Peggy sounds as pleased as she is surprised. "We like to be a friendly store and really know our customers: the farmers, ranchers, and local school kids showing animals," she adds.

Conveniently located across from the Pines Theatre in the center of town, Silsbee Farm & Ranch supplies Lonestar and top brand feed for livestock and pets. The Center features Saddle King, shop-made saddles and other tack, along with elite show equipment for FFA and 4H. Silsbee also stocks fencing and gates, plumbing supplies and hardware, deer corn and a new line of ammo for the sportsman.

Silsbee Farm & Ranch offers a seasonal nursery section with plants for the vegetable and flower gardens, fertilizer, insecticides and herbicides for the yard, garden or ranch. They also sell baby chicks, ducks and bunnies. "And our local honey is delicious!" Peggy says.

2016 promises to be a great year for Peggy and Glenn at Silsbee Farm & Ranch, same name, same location, same traditions, and a few new ones. Located at 301 N. 3rd Street in Silsbee, they are open Monday thru -12 noon Sat. (409) 385-3371.

BIG BASS FISHING TOURNAMENTS ARE NOT JUST FOR ADULT PROFESSIONALS!

By Richard Glenn

our hundred and ninety registered High School teams from all over Southeast Texas came together on the Fall chilled waters of Sam Rayburn this past December to open up the 20152016 Ford SETX High Scholl Fishing Championship series presented by Skeeter boats. Now we are in the middle of the tournament contests, the water is still chilly but the teams are heating up.

Setting attendance records has been nothing new for the SETX group since their start in 2013 and the season opener for 2015-2016 proved no different. "We think this might have been the single largest stringer tournament ever, HS or otherwise" said SETX President Clint Fountain of Kirbyville. "Our staff welcomed the challenge and with the tremendous amount of volunteer help, we pulled it off."

When asked about the tremendous growth of the organization over the past few years, SETX Vice President Tom Selman of PNG replied simply, "We have provided a very unique opportunity for young kids to be successful in something other than the usual school activities that kids have been offered in the past, and they have obviously responded". There are not a lot of schools that can offer that, and we are proud to provide that opportunity in these young people's lives" O'Dell concluded.

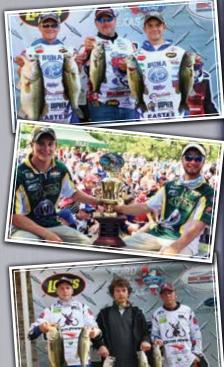

The Southeast Texas Fishing Association mission is to promote the sport of high school fishing, enable youth to become better students, anglers, and people while exposing them to all the opportunities that competitive bass fishing offers, and provide scholarships for continuing education.

With impressive numbers of teams and attendance, this year's HS Fishing Tournaments promise to be the best ever, proving that you don't have to be a professional adult angular to experience all the excitement of big bass fishing tournaments.

The remaining 2016 SETX HS Fishing Association Tournament Schedule Sunday Mar. 6, 2016 Umphrey Family Pavilion Saturday Apr. 16, 2016 Umphrey Family Pavilion Sunday May 15, 2016 Umphrey Family Pavilion

Championship Weekend Saturday and Sunday June 18 and 19, 2016 Umphrey Pavilion The Umphrey Family Pavilion is located on Sam Rayburn Lake near Jasper, Texas.

CODY THEL...COWBOY FIRST, BULL RIDER SECOND

By Leigh Ann Schroeder

he undisputed number one bull rider in Championship Bull Riding for 2015, the 2015 Wrangler National Finals Rodeo (NFR) Average Champion, and the 2012 PRCA World Champion is none other than 23 year old Cody Teel, of Kountze, Texas. Teel's consistency during the 2015 season earned him the NFR Average Championship and the CBR World Champion title worth $100,000. Last year's success has mirrored the consistency of his entire career.

He won the Texas High School Bull Riding Championship twice, proceeded directly to the College National Finals Rodeo Championship in 2011, and then marched into the PRCA's NFR and earned the 2012 PRCA World title followed by the NFR Average Champion title in 2013. But it does not stop there!

In Las Vegas, this past December, he rode a record 8 of 10 bulls he attempted at the PRCA's NFR, the Super Bowl of bull riding, while gathering $213,147.44 and making history books for money earned in the bull riding at the NFR.

The evolution of this Southeast Texas bull rider is a story of true grit, grind, and growth. Cody is atop of the stat sheet for the most single title event wins

(10) on the televised Road to Cheyenne tour (Fox Sports Network). He has been in the top ten rankings of the CBR World Standings since 2012 and he has qualified for the PRCA NFR four consecutive years. At this point in his career his consistency is facilitated by the fact that he knows how to handle the ups and downs of the road. Bull Riding folklore claims "you have to know how to get thru the slumps as well as ride the high tides."

Wanting to follow in the footsteps of some of the other great Southeast Texas bull riders, both Cody and his father Robbie, also a bull rider, respected the tradition of the local cowboys who went before them and learned from many of them including Stormy Gloor, Roy Carter, Howdy Cloud, Gary Richards, and Lane Foltyn, iust to name a few.

"He's a cowboy first and a bull rider second," said Robbie Teel from the porch swing in Kountze, Texas. His father, a PRCA bull rider of the 1980's is currently a well-respected judge in the bucking bull industry, and thinks it is easy to pin point his son's success to that attribute.

"Being a cowboy means never giving up, being respectful of your elders and always respect the people that are trying help you and that includes the fans that bought tickets to see you ride. We were brought up that a cowboy has a code."

With that in mind Teel is active in charity work, never too busy to shake hands, sign autographs, send a fan a special birthday message, and at Cheyenne Frontier Days, teach a news anchor how to ride a mechanical bull, immediately after bucking off a live one.

The CBR World Championship gold buckle sits in his trophy room alongside the PRCA gold buckle and serves as a reminder as he continues to compete weekend after weekend to attempt a third World title, but in life, this young bull rider has already won. Follow Cody's journey on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram. CBRBULL.COM and PRORODEO.COM amar baseball Coach Jim Gilligan is retiring after the 2016 season, he has coached the baseball team for 38 seasons. Jim's association with Lamar began as a player in 1967 and has lasted six decades!

COACH JIM GILLIGAN... 6 DECADES OF SERVICE TO LAMAR UNIVERSITY

In high school Jim was a multisport athlete in Bayside Queens, New York. Baseball was his passion but injuries hampered his pitching in the cold of the Northeast. Initially, Jim was recruited to play basketball at Wharton Jr. College. While at Wharton, he discovered that the heat in the South helped his elbow and lower back and his pitching career was rejuvenated. Ultimately he was offered a scholarship to Lamar State College of Technology. Jim also met his wife and greatest supporter, LaVerne, while attending Wharton Jr. College.

After a successful pitching career at Lamar, Jim was signed by the Detroit Tigers however a severe lower back injury ended his professional career. In the summer of 1970, he returned to Lamar as a graduate student and assistant baseball coach under Bill Vincent. A move to Houston found Jim as 'the token Straight Guy' at hard rock radio station, KLOL. While at KLRY, he discovered that sales was about selling yourself, about presenting ideas and building relationships, all concepts he took with him in coaching!

In 1972, Jim was offered his first head coaching job at Western

New Mexico but after only one year, Lamar contacted Jim about returning to Lamar as Head Coach. From 1973-1986, under his leadership, Lamar won seven league championships, including three straight conference championships from 1975-1977. Jim earned his 500th victory in 1986 and was the youngest coach to achieve that accomplishment!

In 1986 Jim was offered the pitching coach position with the Salt Lake Trappers of the Pioneer League and the Manager position in 1987. The

'87 team won 29 consecutive games, which broke a 68-year professional baseball record and the Pioneer League Championship. The National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y. created a permanent display which included Coach Gilligan's No. 29 jersey and other team memorabilia, at this time Jim also met, Al Vincent, who was the manager of the Beaumont Exporters. Al Vincent was considered the "greatest living baseball mind," by Tommy Lasorda, legendary Manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers and by Billy Martin, Manager of the New York Yankees.

Viva Spoilight

Al Vincent became Jim's mentor and the biggest influence. "Al Vincent is in my heart, every time I step onto the field," says Gilligan. (Lamar named the baseball field Vincent-Beck, after Al Vincent and Bryan Beck, a long time Lamar University Regent.) When Jim returned to Lamar in 1992, he inherited a program that had gone 120-152 in his absence, including an 18-34 in the 1991 season. Jim's first season back, the Cards improved to 32-21 and won a Sun Belt Championship the following year. Since returning to Lamar as head coach, Jim Gilligan's teams have won 11 Conference championships, 13 NCAA regional appearances and 5 conference titles.

He has been named Sun Belt Coach of the Year and Southland Coach of the Year six times. Coach Gilligan ranks fifth among the NCAA's active coaches in career victories with 1,307.

One of the greatest accomplishments was Coach Gilligan's induction into the Texas Baseball Hall of Fame in 2004. He entered the Hall with Houston Astro greats Jeff Bagwell and Craig Biggio, and Texas Ranger Kenny Rogers. He has also been inducted into the Southland Conference Hall of Honor.

Coach Gilligan has coached 133 allconference selections, 4 All-Americans, 79 major league draftees, and 11 major leaguers. Under Coach Gilligan's tutelage Lamar has more Major League baseball scouts than any other college program. Joe McCann (1976-79) is only one of two players to be named All-Southland Conference for his four seasons, plus Mike Laudig (1976-78) is one of thirteen to be named All Conference three times. Gilligan has also coached one Southland Conference Player of the Year, 4 Hitters of the Year and 9 Pitchers of the Year. Another amazing stat is that Coach Gilligan has coached twenty-nine 30 or more win seasons, eight 40 win or more seasons and one 50 win season.

When the Southland Conference celebrated its 50th anniversary, it released five all-decade teams. Jim was listed on four of those teams. For the 1960s, Jim was listed on the team as a pitcher and on the 70's, 80's and 2000's, he was listed as coach.

In 2007, Lamar baseball fans and Cardinal Club members started the Jim Gilligan Scholarship for baseball, which assists members of the baseball team while attending Lamar. In 2010, the Beaumont City Council voted unanimously to rename the road in front of Vincent-Beck Stadium to Jim Gilligan Way. The City Council cited Coach Gilligan's excellence on and off the field.

An interesting anecdote that Jim loves telling is that LSU and Lamar used to play home & home games. Legendary LSU Coach, Skip Bertram, told him, "Jim, made more money playing in Baton Rouge than losing in Beaumont." As a side bar, new LSU coach Paul Mainieri has agreed to schedule Lamar in 2016 as attribute to Jim.

Lamar Athletic Director, Jason Henderson says, "We are extremely grateful for all that Jim has done for Lamar University, the athletic department and especially the baseball program. Jim's passion for Lamar University and baseball is unmatched."

Jim says he's not retiring, "I just won't be the head baseball coach. Baseball is the greatest fraternity in the World." Jim says the great relationships and friendships he has developed while at Lamar are enduring and life-long!

An example is the relationship he developed with David Bernsen. David played for Jim and has been his #1 supporter and greatest friend. Jim is not involved in the selection of his successor in any capacity. He is supportive of anyone that supports Lamar and the baseball program. Coach Jim Gilligan will be missed but his legacy will live forever in the hearts of Cardinal baseball fans!

IMPORTANT HOME RENOVATION TIPS YOU MIGHT VE MISSED By Andrea Davis

ew year, new you, right? Sure! If you're like most people, the New Year is chock-full of health-and wellnessrelated resolutions, but why stop there? Your home could use some improvements this year, too. If a major home improvement is on your list of resolutions, it pays to have your plans established before you get started. So, to avoid your renovations becoming irritations, here are some budgeting and organizational guidelines to help you get where you're going.

1. Prioritize by necessity.

It's important to tackle any serious home maintenance problems before an aesthetic remodel begins.

2. Weigh the costs of hiring a pro.

Depending on the scope of your project, hiring a professional is a good idea. A professional will work according to deadlines, save you money on materials and avoid major mistakes that will drastically change the timeline (and cost) of your renovation.

3. Time the project realistically.

Before you book a contractor, make sure you understand your project's timeline. Lofty expectations for a completion date will make your remodel difficult for everyone involved.

4. Check on permits.

Codes vary from city-to-city, so investigating local ordinances is extremely important for your renovation timeline.

5. Keep a "slush fund" handy.

Setbacks are a part of any renovation. If your house is particularly old, your timeline should allow some leeway. Also, it's important to setup a secondary account to cover any unforeseen problems.

6. Avoid reusing materials.

Allowing your contractor to purchase new materials is always preferable to any other alternatives.

7. Be prepared to move out.

If your renovation is extensive, moving out during the remodel is strongly recommended.

JUNKYARD FINDS THAT WILL TRANSFORM YOUR YARD

By D.E. Meek

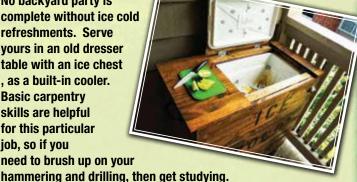

eeping and maintaining a beautiful backyard is an important part of home ownership. However, Viva Southeast Texas Magazine knows that landscaping and restyling your outdoor space can quickly get expensive. If you don't have the money for luxurygrade backyard transformations, consider junkyard or garage sell finds as the answer. A little work and paint can help make your backyard dreams come true.

Pergola Shade

If you're lucky enough to have a pergola in your backyard, create your own stylish and functional shade with canvas material for the canopies and held with wire and grommets. When you're drawing the shades on your outdoor lounge space, it won't be that hard to imagine you're in a sunny Italian villa.

Ice Chest

No backyard party is complete without ice cold refreshments. Serve yours in an old dresser table with an ice chest , as a built-in cooler. Basic carpentry skills are helpful for this particular job, so if you need to brush up on your Lounging Chairs If you have some old d rocking chairs or Adirondack chairs lying around the house, why not breathe new life into them. You can also find a good bargain at a thrift store or garage sale. Reuse the frame and attach lumber slats. After that, use outdoor spray paint in a metal color to create an ultramodern hybrid chair.

Patio Bar Table

For people who love outdoor entertaining, a bar table is essential. Take a standard, table height bookcase and add a lumber top and some decorative trim. Paint or stain to your taste. It's that simple! Just make sure to keep the bar fully stocked or even the most attractive patio furniture won't be able to help you.

Backyard Oasis

When your backyard leaves much to be desired in the way of entertaining space, just make your own! Try using RUNNEN floor decking or concreate pavers. Your local Home-improvement store has several choices to choose from. Now just add your make-over patio finds and entertain!

STATE OF THE STATE

DECORATING YOUR HOME COWBOY STYLE!

By D.E. Meek

ou live in Southeast Texas or Southwest Louisiana and you love the look of Western décor. It's only natural you would want to bring a little of that wide-open feeling into your living spaces. Whether you're adding character to your new home or getting an existing home ready to sell, it's easy to invite the West inside. You don't have to spend a lot of money or be a professional designer to do it. Below are a few inexpensive ways you can achieve that Cowboy style! Start with curb appeal, envisioning a Western landscape with river rock, stone, or drift wood. Now add a few pieces inside your home.

1. Work the palette. One of the easiest ways to bring a Western feeling into your home is through color. The Western palette echoes the colors of nature, like sand, rocks, wood tones, sunsets, earthy browns, cactus greens, sunset reds and oranges, icy grey waters, and big sky blues.

So with the simple use of paint, you can set the stage for other Western touches throughout your home.

2. Think small.
You don't need a lot of space or a huge budget to pull off a Cowboy Western look.
Replace your kitchen cabinet hardware with wrought iron pulls; add Navajoinspired pillows and baskets; hang photos and artifacts of the Old West on your walls. These types of small changes will take your home in a Western direction. And of course, the look wouldn't be finished until you hang a metal Texas star. Sometimes little touches can have a bigger impact than an overall transformation.

3. Think naturally. One of the unifying themes of Cowboy Western decor is nature. Early settlers used what was available to make what they needed such as rustic wood, stone, hides, antlers and native grasses. Wood furniture and stone or brick fireplaces give you the natural look. Animal hides and deer antlers can also be used in your décor. So keep an eye out for materials that are natural to your area and use them to breathe the Cowboy spirit into your own home.

WHY EXERCISE IS THE MAGIC BULLET FOR BOOSTING METABOLISM

etabolism is the process by which your body uses fuel provided by foods you eat to produce energy at the cellular level. Of all the things you could do to insure a healthy, robust metabolism, nothing is more effective than regular physical activity. The reason is simple. Exercise can enhance metabolism through four separate ways.

Exercise, especially resistance exercise, like weight lifting, yoga, and Pilates, increases lean body mass (muscle). The amount of muscle tissue you have in your body is the primary determinant of your basal metabolic rate or BMR. BMR accounts for about 65% of the total calories your body burns daily. Muscle tissue is highly active and burns fat very effectively. For perspective, one pound of muscle burns fourteen calories a day, while one pound of fat burns just three calories.

The more you exercise, the more muscle tissue you can maintain or even build. The value of resistance exercise to enhance metabolism becomes even more important as we age. Unfortunately, loss of muscle tissue is a predictable part of the aging process, but taxing those muscles, especially resistance exercise, can mitigate this loss.

The act of exercising leads to a significant, transient increase in metabolic rate. This is called "afterburn." Aerobic exercise, especially vigorous activity, provides the most "afterburn." High intensity interval (HIT) exercise, which entails very brief (15 seconds to 1 minute) of very intense (85-100% max heart rate) aerobic activity alternating with three to four minutes of very light activity is a very time-efficient way to exploit "afterburn."

Exercise increases the numbers of and the activity of our cell's fuel and fat-burning machinery known as mitochondria. The more mitochondria you have and the better they operate, the more fat you can burn and the more energy you will have. Although all forms of exercise can increase mitochondria, HIT is particularly potent.

Exercise, especially aerobic activity, improves the activity and action of the all-powerful, mother hormone of metabolism, insulin. The better your insulin works, the more efficient is your metabolism, therefore better will be your overall health.

REAL FOOD, NOT JUNK FOOD

By Council of Nutrition

the consume a lot of calories at home. Unfortunately, home has become the place for fast food and snack food convenience. While not ideal, home is where we grab the candy bar or bag of chips and sit in front of the television. Home is where we sit down to eat after stopping at the drive-thru. But it doesn't have to be. The steps below will give you specific actions that you can take to turn your home into a healthy environment for your entire family.

Make Real Food Easy

Healthy foods should be the easy snacking options around the house. We grab for chips or cookies because chips and cookies are there. If fruit is sitting in a bowl on the counter, we would grab for that instead. Real foods should also be the easy meal options around the house. This takes planning. We often stop at the drive-thru for a quick dinner instead of going to the grocery store to pick up food to prepare. Make your trips to the grocery store last for the week. Plan out the meals you will eat every night so that the quick fast food stop is not even a temptation.

Create Healthy Traditions
Show respect to any traditional meals prepared for your family, and show respect to your family by making those meals good for their health. Infuse your traditional dishes with fresh produce and spices and consider growing all the veggies and herbs you need in a family garden. Some of our favorite meals often include meat. By replacing fatty meats with lean meat and grilling instead of frying you can quickly cut down the calories of your family's favorites.

Introduce your family to the idea of farm-to-table foods, or better yet, family-garden-to-family-table foods. Your family will have a stronger connection to the healthy foods they eat when they feel a sense of ownership over the fruits and vegetables they've helped plant, watched grow, and prepared for their meals. Growing your own fruits and vegetables will keep your family attuned to what's fresh and what's out of season. The vibrant colors and flavors of your seasonal produce can encourage you to try new recipes and healthy recreations of old recipes.

erry Nelson's Hill Country is the place to go for great dining and entertainment. The Backyard Music Hall features music performances from the best local entertainers to some of the biggest names in country and rock.

The Wood Fire Grill specializes in Country cuisine rooted in some of the region's most prevalent culinary influences, including Southern cooking, Mexican and Tex-Mex cuisine, barbecue, Cajun food, and farm-to-table techniques. Yet, it has its own distinctive qualities, merging comfort food sensibilities, bold flavors, and attentiveness to quality and consistency.

Go early and enjoy a drink from the well stocked bar. Looking for something different try the burnt ends, smoked quail knots or fried asparagus from the appetizer list. From the extensive entrée menu, try the grilled capricola ham and gouda cheese sandwich, the cold smoked grilled salmon, or how about the crab cake stuffed portabella mushroom ribeye. Of course all the steaks are US certified Angus Beef.

The Wood Fire grill is open from 11 am -4 for lunch with 20 items under $15 Monday – Saturday and closed Sundays hether it's relaxing at home, dining out at a restaurant or celebrating with friends and family, Southeast Texans are enjoying wine at a wider variety of occasions than ever before. In fact, 85 percent of frequent wine drinkers now believe that wine is equally appropriate for casual and formal settings alike.

Today's attitudes and behaviors toward wine drinking were recently captured in the second Gallo Consumer Wine Trends Survey, commissioned by E. & J. Gallo Winery. The survey of 1,000 frequent wine drinkers found that 82 percent enjoy between one and five glasses per week, which they enjoy at a wide range of occasions. This is a good sign for the wine industry as well as the local wineries of Southeast Texas.

A more casual approach to wine suggests that shoppers are more likely to try new wines across a range of prices. In fact, more than one-third of survey respondents classified themselves as a "wine adventurer," while only 3 percent of those surveyed self-identified as "wine snobs."

More wine tasting events means more opportunities to try new wines. The top factors that inspire a frequent wine drinker to try something new are recommendations from friends, family members and coworkers. All the Southeast Texas wineries offer wine tasting events and more restaurants are offering a larger selection on wine. More and more liquor stores and grocery stores are carrying local wines for all occasions as social trends change to more casual meetings and get togethers with family and friends.

rank Gilligan came to Beaumont to join his brother, Lamar baseball coach Jim Gilligan, as equipment manager.

A friendship was formed with Rick Henderson, a sports reporter for the University Press, Frank and Rick started singing around town and eventually formed a band and called themselves, Mason Dixon. The band was comprised of Frank, Rick and Jerry Dengler.
Mason Dixon played the Texas night club scene and eventually toured the US and Canada.

In 1987 Mason Dixon became the first band to have a Top 40 Country Billboard single on an Independent label with the release of 3935 West End Avenue. Shortly, thereafter, Mason Dixon was signed to a recording contract with Capitol Nashville and released their most successful single, Exception to the Rule. Henderson left the group in 1989, to be replaced by Terry "Caz" Casburn (vocals, bass). A second album for Capitol, Reach for It, was completed but never released.

Some highlights of Frank's career as lead singer with Mason Dixon include:

- Nine straight number 1 hits on the Independent Country Music Charts
- Selected for the 1985 "New Faces Show" in Nashville
- Wrote and recorded a "Don't Mess With Texas" radio spot 1986
- Voted CASHBOX Magazine "Independent Vocal Group of the Year in 1987"
- # 5 CMT hit video with the group's signature song "When Karen Comes Around"
- Filmed a 1987 Christmas special with Charlie Daniels on the stage of The Grand Ole Opry

EXILLE IN FORESTANAS OF THE STANKS

Philadelphia might have the cheesesteak sandwich. New York may boast of its pizza, and Texas has barbecue -- but Southwest Louisiana has Boudin, and eating it guarantees that a visitor will leave with a tingling palate, full stomach and an official certificate of their becoming a true Louisianan.

Boudin is a sausage made with meat and rice and is generally considered the signature food of Southwest Louisiana. It's a culinary gift from the French Cajuns who settled in Louisiana after being sent out of Nova Scotia in the 1700s by the British. The sausage and its many recipes originated in the prairie regions of the Bayou State and traveled to Calcasieu Parish. Years ago. Cajun families would get together to

Years ago, Cajun families would get together to slaughter a hog, an event known as a boucherie. The families left nothing to waste so boudin was made with the leftover parts of the animal. Today, boudin is made with ground pork, liver, rice, parsley, onions, salt, black pepper, red pepper, and other seasonings that vary from cook to cook. The sausage can be steamed or smoked, much to the delight of many residents.

The best way to find your favorite boudin is to sample it. In Southwest Louisiana that means travelling the Southwest Louisiana Boudin Trail along U.S. Interstate 10 and visiting any mom and pop food establishment, specialty meat shop, or grocery store that has boudin fresh or packaged. To find all of the 29 stops on the Southwest Louisiana Boudin Trail, log on to www.visitlakecharles.org/boudintrail.

COWBOYS, RUSTLERS AND BILLY THE KID

illiam Bonney (aka, Billy the Kid) escaped from the Lincoln County Jail on June 17, 1879. My Mother's grandfather (aka, Grandpa) was playing marbles in the street that day as Billy the Kid road right past him. "He tipped his hat and smiled right at me, but his eyes were those of a stone cold killer and right there and then, I decided I didn't want to be an outlaw", Grandpa would often tell me. He loved to talk about the "old west" and the years he was a young cowboy, and I loved hearing his stories. He had an easy way of making the past come to life.

He grew up in the Hondo valley of the New Mexico territory and was a real cowboy working on the nearby John Chisum ranch. Grandpa was 23 years old when he and two of his best friends were night riding on one of Chisum's cattle-drives heading to Santa Fe. As they walked their horses beside the sleeping herd, singing to the cattle, ten men wearing bandanas over their faces appeared, firing their guns toward them. Rustlers were trying to take the herd. Grandpa said that contrary to what most people believed, cowboys didn't tend a herd of cattle wearing holsters with guns (too easy to have an accident). In fact, most cowboys were not "pistoleros" but relied on their rifles when they needed them. Outlaws, gunslingers and killers were the ones that used the famous colts. Grandpa and his friends could only shout for help from the cowboys who were in camp. During the ordeal, one of his friends was shot and died in Grandpa's arms. When the other cowboys from camp showed up, they all took chase after the rustlers. It was still dark, making it difficult to see the prairie dog hole Grandpa's horse stepped in, breaking it's leg and rolling back on top of my Grandpa.

Grandpa's leg was crushed and the cowboys were so far from the nearest doctor. They found some old tree limbs and bound his leg up. He had to ride in the chuckwagon that way till they reached Santa Fe. By then, his leg was crooked and pretty well set. The doctor told Grandpa, he would have to rebreak the leg in order to set it correctly. Grandpa said no and spent the rest of his years as a cowboy being a chuckwagon cook or a lineman for the ranch.

After Chisum's death, Grandpa worked for several ranchers in the Hondo area till he opened his own meat market in Roswell, New Mexico. He died in 1968. He was a real live cowboy from his Stetson to his boots and in many ways, my hero.

You can make a trip to Fort Summer, New Mexico and visit the Billy the Kid Museum to learn more interesting facts about this famous outlaw, John Chisum and cowboys like my great grandfather.

RODEO SO METERS MODING

By Joy Wooley

n 1947 the Jasper Rodeo arena was built and founded by the Jasper Rodeo and Cattle Company. Area Lions club's including the Kirbyville Lions Club, held their FFA shows along with the first rodeo in the new arena, benefiting the local High School FFA students. Over the course of years, the rodeo has grown. It now includes a rodeo Queen, a parade and live entertainment

Since the beginning it has attracted some of the best cowboys and is known as the longest consecutive PRCA event in the state of Texas. Some of the biggest names in entertainment have performed in the past, such as Eddie Arnold, Hank Williams Jr., Willie Nelson, Trace Adkins, Black Shelton and local boy, Tracy Byrd, before thousands of fans.

2016 marks the 70th year of the Jasper Lions Benefit Rodeo. The event runs May 11th through May 24th with Johnny Lee as the main headliner in the live entertainment. His song, "Looking for Love" form the movie Urban Cowboy, launched his career to super stardom. There will be top PRCA rodeo cowboys and cowgirls every night, offering thrills and spills, along with the antics of rodeo clowns and special performances by John Payne, the One Arm Bandit.

This is the best in family fun, so come out and celebrate the 70th birthday of the Jasper Lions Benefit Rodeo. For more information and tickets, contact www.jaspelionsrodeo.com

WORLD CHAIN OWNER, JODY NOLLAND OT SURVIVED POINT DUME (DOOM)

By Kathie Platt

n March 19, 1989, youthful bravado and a quest to attain the summit in a free climb induced Jody Nolan and two best friends (on Spring Break in Malibu) to take on the sandstone cliffs at Point Dume. Rising a couple hundred feet above the beach, the peak beckoned. While his two buddies navigated the cliffs ahead of him, Jody brought up the rear during the hour-long ascent.

I could get back to the gym, I was there everyday in my wheelchair to rehabilitate. Within two to three vears I was back to fighting shape, better than I had been before my accident."

One loose rock, however, turned an exhilarating, triumphant climb into tragedy as 19-year-old Jody lost his handhold and bounced dangerously down the rock face to a battered unconsciousness, sustaining multiple life-threatening injuries, including obvious head trauma, massive chest trauma, fractured ribs, and a collapsed lung. While the doctor doubted Jody would survive, much less walk again, after eight hours in surgery—and nearly six weeks in a coma--Jody reawakened to the world around him and the long road ahead of him.

The biggest challenge for Jody was a change in direction for his life. He had originally planned to join the Marine Corps Reserve after graduating from Lamar University as a Criminal Justice Major. After his accident, the Corps would no longer accept him. So Jody devoted himself to a new cause--developing a topnotch workout facility in Southeast Texas. In 1995 he opened World Gym Fitness Centers, followed in 2004 by World Gym Express.

World Gym Express

4045 Dowlen Rd. Beaumont, TX

Jody also caught the acting bug. Still in rehab in Galveston, he tracked down Chuck Norris who was filming Sidekicks (1992) in Houston and was hired as the stunt "stand in" to Eric Norris (Chuck's son), Jody also played himself in several scenes during the Rescue 911: Point Dume episode (1992), narrated by William Shatner. He performed stunt work and extra work in Point Man (1994) with Jack Scalia; in Gambler Five (1994) with Kenny Rogers; and as one of the Texicans in The Alamo (2004), starring Dennis Quaid and Billy Bob Thornton. He produced and performed in Con Games (2001) with Eric Roberts; and One More Round (2015) with Kevin Sorbo, both in LA; and Noble Things (2008), shot on location in Southeast Texas. Recently Jody played a bad guy in the fight scenes in The Martial Arts Kid (2015).

Today Jody is at peace with his change of course in life: building one of the most successful workout gym franchises in Southeast Texas, mixing it up with the actor's life as a stunt man, stunt coordinator, and film producer. He considers his near tragic fall a wakeup call. "All that attention helped pull me back. When I consider all the people who helped me, I know I can never thank them enough—or repay them," Jody reflects, always looking to the next project ahead.

WHAT IT MEANS TO BE A TEXAND OFFICIALLY

s Texans, we have a style of our own, from our hospitality to our headwear. But you may be surprised to hear the iconic symbol of Western culture, the cowboy hat, only became an official state symbol this past year courtesy of the 84th Texas Legislature. This makes Texas the first state to designate an officially sanctioned hat.

The cowboy hat is just one of dozens of items ranging from food to flower to fossil that are Texan enough to be deemed official state symbols. According to the Texas State Library and Archives, 76 items, things, or activities have now earned official status. The official flower is the bluebonnet. Our state bird is the mockingbird, and the longhorn, the armadillo and the Mexican freetailed bat are among our official state mammals with the American quarter horse and the Blue Lacey dog breed.

And while we couldn't possibly capture the essence of the Lone Star State in even one hundred items, our 76 official symbols bring pride to our almost 27 million residents and give an idea of what it really means to be a Texan to our millions of annual visitors. Now that's something to hang our statesanctioned cowboy hat on.

WINGATE RANCH...A MODERN RANCH WITH A HISTORY!

Bv Jov Woolev

he Wingate ranch, located off Griffith Road, near Highway 365, was established in 1831. The original Mexican land grants are still part of the ranch today, as are the David Burrell League, the JJ French League and the William Carr League. The David Burrell League was a grant from the Republic of Texas and today includes the Wingate Ranch headquarters. The Wingate family history is connected to the JJ Burrell League, as JJ Burrells' daughter, Elsia Electra, married Bailey Wingate. The Wingate legacy in Texas history is historic as Bailey's father, William, fought at the Battle of San Jacinto and William's brother fought and was killed at the Siege of Goliad. To continue the Wingate family history and their connection to the ranch, one of Bailey and Elsia's sons was Rube, and Rube was father to Jim. Jim and his two sons, William and Bailey, own and operate this working ranch today.

Jim remembers many of his father Rube's stories and tales of the history of the Wingate Ranch and their family's connection to it. One of his favorite stories was about William Carr and his pirate friend, Jean Lafitte. The pirate was known to travel up Taylor's Bayou with loads of contraband. The residents of the area were grateful for the opportunity to purchase luxuries otherwise unavailable to them.

Today the ranch is approximately 7000 acres and raises Beefmaster cattle, as well as registered quarter horses. SR Instant Choice is their cutting horse stud; his offspring have earned over 5 million dollars. Another prized cutting horse is Chica San Badger, a champion National Cutting Horse Association mare. Both SR Instant Choice and Chica San Badger are King Ranch bred King Ranch is known to produce some of finest Quarter horses in the world.

Other Wingate family operations include oil and gas production. The bottom photo is of a well that blew out on the ranch, circa 1955. Jim Wingate was ten years old at the time and witnessed it firsthand while working cattle on horseback! "Since then, my Dad has been pretty aggressive in picking up contiguous properties to the ranch which included mineral rights" says Bailey.

Another Wingate venture is land and subdivision development. The area around Highway 365 and LaBelle Road will eventually encompass more than 1000 acres of quality, residential housing and lots. They have recently opened the fourth of five units of the Ridgecrest Subdivision and are selling 1-5 acre tracts.

An interesting sidebar are the cattle brands that are still used today:

DL- established in 1840 by JJ Burrell, now used by Jim Wingate

NF- is the brand William Wingate uses that was started in 1840 by Nancy French, mother of JJ and George Burrell

J5- formerly the brand of JJ French, currently used by Bailey Wingate

H5- is the brand belonging to Tanya Wingate, it originally belonged to Nancy Tevis. The Tevis family had a pull-across ferry that crossed the Neches River across from the Beaumont Court House in the 1840's. The Wingate's are direct descendants of the Tevis family. The Wingate Family represents the ideals, traditions and spirit of Texas!
